THREE DEFEATS FOR 'VARSITY BALL TEAM

Massachusetts Trip Unsuccessful---Team Plays Ragged Ball

RALLY WINS FOR B. C. 7-6

Worcester and Northeastern Also Win---Errors Feature

Three defeats, only one of which brought fresh laurels to the Blue, were the outcome of the 'Varsity invasion of lower Massachusetts the last three days of the week. Middlebury lost consecutively to Worcester Polytechnic Institute, Boston College and Northeastern University. Against the strongest of the three nines Middlebury was credited with the best performance, losing to Boston College by a margin of one score in a game in which it was ahead by a score of 6-4 until the ninth inning.

Boston College Game

Middlebury lost to Boston College 7-6 in the second game, Friday afternoon in Boston, as the result of a spirited last-minute rally on the part of the Maroon and Gold players. Hulihan pitched his usual steady game, fanning twelve, until the ninth inning, when with the bases full and none out, he walked Halligan, forcing in a run which cased his replacement by Hastings. E. Philips' double to left sewed up the game by driving in two runs, for Middlebury failed to score in her half.

The brand of ball exhibited by the Boston nine was by no means of an air-tight variety. Against Middlebury's two errors the home team registered a total of six and caused pitcher Kelley no little uneasiness. Captain Timberman, Gallagher and Hastings made two hits apiece.

VOTE TO UNSHACKLE INTERFRAT. COUNCIL

Fraternity Men Vote Drastic Changes in Inter-Relations

OVERTHROW CONSTITUTION

Council Vested With Plenary Powers---To Draw New Rushing Rules

Loosing the shackles which have tied the hands of the Interfraternity Council for the last four years, members of the five men's fraternities, in joint session Monday night in Old Chapel, voted such powers to the Council as will probably insure a speedy settlement of the rushing question and close the breech which has kept two factions in the conference at variance during the past year. With more than the necessary two-thirds majority in two ballots, the meeting voted to vest the Council with plenary powers to draw up a new constitution and set of rushing rules subject to a majority vote in that body.

The drastic nature of the change wrought in the Council's powers is bound to have a far-reaching effect in the disposition of inter-fraternal problems. Clothed in their new authority the members of the Council, consisting of two representatives from each of the fraternities and two members of the faculty, will have final jurisdiction in writing the rules which are to govern next year's rushing, in place of the former restriction which made unanimous ratification by the fraternities necessary before their acts of legislation went into effect. A further change of importance is the lowering of the ratio of votes required for the passsage of measures in the Council from unanimous to a bare majority which will eliminate much of the danger of a deadiock such as has practically paralyzed that body during the last two years.

In his remarks preceding the first action by the fraternity men, Professor Charles F. Abbott, chairman of the Interfraternity Council, emphasized the futility of that body's attempting to solve the fraternity dilemma while hardly possessing the power of recommendation. He drew an analogy between the Constitutional Convention of 1787 and the present situation with regard to the fraternities, declaring that if these organizations were to remain firm in their unwillingness to compromise or to accept as final, decisions of the Council, it would be foolhardy to look for any settlement between the two factions, the one advocating the two-week rushing period, the other, an extended season.

After the meeting had decided upon its rules of procedure, the vote was taken on the principal motion of the evening, providing that "the Interfraternity Council be given plenary power to make a constitution and set of rushing rules as they see fit", the measure passing 89-36. Amendments seeking to establish unanimous and two-thirds rules in the Council were defeated by substantial majorities and the measure passed in its original form.

An informal supper was given to members of the Editorial Board of this and last year's Campus at the Betsey Buttles Tea House on 26 Court street. Twelve "scribes" attended and indulged in after dinner speaking under the direction of L. T. Wade, the retiring editor, who officiated as toastmaster.

GOLLNICK CHOSEN TO HEAD UNDERGRAD. ASSOCIATION NEXT YEAR

148 BALLOT FOR OFFICERS

M. Adams, Kalin, and Vose Other Members Elected to Council---Kelly Named Vice-Pres.---Three Amendments Passed

Albert F. Gollnick '23 of Milwaukee, Wis., was elected president of the Undergraduate Association, at a meeting of that body held last night in Hepburn Social Hall. The ballot showed Gollnick an easy victor over L. T. Wade '22, his nearest competitor, 83 to 37. The other votes were scattering. Hall received 15, Howard 5, and Kelly 8.

The senior representatives elected to the Student Council Roger T. Hall and William R. Cole received 89 and 58 votes respectively. The two juniors chosen by 108 and 71 votes to serve on the governing body next year were I. Murray Adams and Eddie S. Kalin and in the sophomore election Charles E. Vose triumphed over L. E. Klimm by a vote of 83 to 61.

The new president, Gollnick, prepared for college at South Divison High School, Milwaukee, and has been prominent in college activities during his three years at Middlebury. He played 'Varsity football during his sophomore and junior years and is captain-elect of next year's eleven. He is a member of the Glee and Mandolin Clubs and has already served one year on the Student Council as a sophomore representative. He also is a member of this year's track and tennis teams, serving now as manager in the latter sport. He is a member of Alpha Sigma Phi fraternity, Sages, and Waubanakee.

The other senior members to the Council have also been prominent in student activities. Hall prepared at Hallowel Academy, Maine and was last year treasurer of the Undergraduate Association. He was chairman of the Junior Play Committee and Art Editor of The Kaleidoscope. He is a member of Delta Upsilon fraternity, Sages, and Waubanakee. Cole is from Beverly, Mass., though he matriculated at Orleans High School. He is a member of the 'Varsity track team, the Outing Club team, the Glee Club, the Choir, and the Mandolin Club. He is assistant manager of basketball and treasurer of the Eastern Intercollegiate Ski Association. Cole is a member of Alpha Sigma Phi fraternity and Waubanakee.

After the ballots on the Council election had been counted, Byron F. Kelly of Woodstock was elected vice president. Leonard, Clark, and Shelvey were nominated for treasurer but the selection of these and other officers and the nominations of the Athletic Council will be made at a special meeting of the Association next Tuesday.

At the meeting three amendments, creating new permanent committees, were added to the constitution. These were a campus and grounds committee, a dormitory committee, and a library committee. The selection of the personnel of these committees will be left

ANNOUNCE TWO NEW ENTERTAINMENTS

Pablo Cassals, Cellest, and Hulda Lashanska, Soprano, Latest Additions to Winter Course

Announcement has been made by the Student Life Committee that contracts have recently been signed providing for the appearance of Pablo Casals, cellist, on January 11th and for a vocal recital by Hulda Lashanska at a later date.

Mr. Casals has long been recognized as the greatest cellist in the world. If it were possible, the fame of his magnificent genius is even more renowned in Europe than in America, and his appearances in Paris, London, Berlin, and Vienna are among the most brilliant musical and social events of the season. He has appeared with all the leading orchestras of note, under the baton of such conductors as Wiengartner, Albert Coates, Toscanini, and Karl Muck. Of recent years, his New York and Boston recitals have not been frequent, owing to the immense demand for his services, and it is but rarely that consent has been obtained for appearances in any but the very foremost musical centers.

Mme. Lashanska is one of the most promising young sopranos in the concert field. While perhaps not of international repute, nevertheless she has made a very deep impression wherever she has appeared, not only by her artistic singing but also by her charming and gracious personality. One of our foremost critics declared that she was possessor of one of the glorious natural vioces known to the world of music. Mme. Marcella Sembrich, recognizing the ability of the young woman, consented to accept the responsibility of training her voice, and the magnificent result she has achieved is evident. Despite the fact that her teacher is probably the greatest musician in the world, and that the glamor cast by her name and fame is very refulgent, nevertheless Mme. Lashanska can stand on her own merits. Fellow artists are enthusiastic in her praise and famous singers are almost always present at her recitals to express their appreciation of her artistic achievements. Mme. Lashanska has

A Personal Responsibility

Assuredly there are none of us who have not somewhere within our inner selves a certain sense of what is right, just and true, together with a desire, whether developed to a greater or less degree, to conform to those ideals and standards in as strict a manner as possible. But this innate feeling may often be stamped out by the continuance of actions not in strict accordance with what, if we examined them honestly, would be our course in keeping allegiance to that sense of what is right, just and true, which is what we call honor. A small act of honesty or responsibility perhaps often seems to us of no great importance, of no great matter to the world or ourselves if it is performed carelessly or even let slip by undone and soon forgotten. Yet the first few times that this is done is there not a feeling of dissatisfaction with ourselves, a slight disgust at not being the possessor of enough will power or character, to carry out what at heart we really know to be the right thing? Often this feeling may be stifled before there is hardly a full realization of its having once existed, and the matter cast from our minds, making it just so much easier when the same happening shall occur again, not to entertain this feeling at all. Thus we are deadening that finer sense of honor, by what seems a series of insignificant occurrences so that we become unable to discriminate between the just and the unjust, when something of greater importance shall come into our lives for us to act upon.

The matter of personal responsibility in regard to the return of books to the library, under the honor system which has been in force here now since last January, may seem a small thing to many people. In fact, many do not realize that a responsibility has been placed on them at all. Some consider that after taking a book from the library they have nothing more to think of until a card is received, after which they then take their own time in returning it. The records in regard to reserve books show an even greater disregard, these often being kept for days and days. The fact that three or four times as many notices are sent out now as formerly, or an average of four notices a day, hardly seems in keeping with the confidence which is placed in us. One of the main purposes of the system is the training in responsibility it affords, a term which is defined as the state of rendering satisfaction, or of being worthy of a trust, which is the assured reliance in another's integrity, veracity and justice. Does it seem very upright to prevent others from the use of the books they may wish, or very truthful to evade thus the spirit of the law, or very just to cause so much undue trouble and expense for the librarians?

Honor is one of the biggest things in life, and one upon which our intercourse with man must be based if we are to realize to the fullest extent the possibilities and take greatest advantage of the opportunities which await us. Nothing was ever satisfactorilly built on a basis whose foundation was not honor, and if we are to put this system into other departments of college life and carry it out into the world with us, the place for our training to begin is right here and now with this phase of it, with which we daily come in contact.

More Tennis Courts

The decision to reserve the tennis courts for 'Varsity practice daily from three until six is entirely justifiable in view of the greatly increased use to which the courts have been subjected partly by reason of the growing popularity of the sport and partly by reason of the increased size of the student body and the failure to place the women's courts in playing shape. One has but to consider the college courts on any suitable day to realize the very real need of more playing space for the students. It is a not uncommon sight to see all of the courts in use during the entire afternoon and almost a score of would-be players grouped on the sidelines waiting patiently for their turn.

Tennis is a growing collegiate sport. Played almost universally as one of the cleanest of all branches of athletic activity, it provides amusement of the very highest sort together with healthy, invigorating exercise. Its greatly increased recognition during the past few years may be taken as a true indication of its value in the field of sport. Middlebury can ill afford to close its doors to those who desire this favored form of exercise, yet close them she must to an ever increasing number unless additional facilities for the game are soon provided. Last year there were five courts in playing condition. This year there are but three, the women's courts having not yet, at this late date, been prepared for use. As a result of this unfortunate decrease where there should have been increase, the women tennis adherents have been obliged to encroach on the men's domains and the addition of their numbers makes the conjestion on the three available courts extremely heavy and quite inconvenient to all parties.

Middlebury can easily use six, nine or even twelve new courts, besides those she already has. There are members of the faculty who like the game and yet, as has often been expressed, they do not like to intrude upon what was essentially designed for the use of the students. It would be an important step for the betterment of the college equipment and the upbuilding of better physical standards at Middlebury, if at least one of the three courts on the campus could be reserved exclusively for the faculty and enough additional courts provided to accommodate the exigencies of the increased student enrollment.

An impression may have been created by a comment in a recent issue of The Campus, to the effect that the darkness of the photographs in The Kaleidoscope was due to the fault of the local photographer. This seems not to have been the case.

The girls from the Homestead gave an informal dance Saturday evening in the Sigma Kappa rooms. Chaperons were: Professor and Mrs. Duane L. Robinson and Professor and Mrs. Frank W. Cady.

The Periscope

"Courage"

A link of the Chain has ofttimes let his eyes wander from the excitement of an athletic contest to the spectators about him. In the seating arrangements there has always been a clear cut division of the male and female contingents of the college which would remind us of the absence of intercourse that separated the relations of the houses, Montague and Capulat. Why does reticence display itself so vividly on these particular occasions? At last Saturday's tennis match, one bold Romeo seeking to break precedent came down the rocky precipices above the courts, stealthily creeping through brambles and briers and besat himself in our flower garden, a thorn among roses. One male, and only one, he reminded us of that Thespian character, "Old Lady 31," who forced by devotion to his spouse followed her to a home for aged spinsters.

The following are a few possible questions and evasive answers which may aptly be assigned to the Edison Questionnaire.

Q. Give an example of "Patriotism".

A. The flea that firmly believes he lives on the most wonderful dog in the world.

Q. Who is which of the Smith Brothers?

A. The other.

Q. If it takes a whale five minutes to array himself in a Tuxedo how long will it take a mole to put on a straw hat with his hands tied? If not be brief and figure your answer to eight decimal places.

Q. What is rarer than a day in Spring?

A. The same in February.

Such answers, the fruition of study, for a period of months on one line of thought vie with the greatly exaggerated and humorous? (we hope) answers in the document of the Wizard of West Orange given above.

How much general information should a student have as a foundation for a tilt with the economics of Socialism? The instructor in Econ. 2 asked his class a question of the "Who or What" variety, with the benign purpose of tempering the wind (professional brand) to the shorn lamb. He tells ye Ball and Chain demon that the answers show the lambs to be not merely shorn, but shaved.

Eugene Debs.—A prominent American politician who is now situated in an Atlanta jail.

Emma Goldmann.—(1) A well-known movie actress residing in Los Angeles. (2) A big suffragette leader, born in America, but deported because she married a Russian.

Non-partisan League.—(1) Better known as the old Federal League, formed in opposition to the regular National and American leagues. Still in existence. (2) A reform organization which meets in New York, but does business all over the country.

Bellamy's "Looking Backward."—(1) An interesting love story of the future. (2) Haven't read it, but a very good book.

"A Compliment, Think We"

The Emporium of Merchant Marshall on receiving Ye Periscope's approbation on its principle of "Supply and Demand", became bolder and now has the Musical Concert placard flanking its "Eggs Wanted" advertisement. Pride fills our breasts when we think of such immediate editorial effect.

Rev. N. Boynton Speaks at Vespers

The speaker at Sunday Vespers was the Rev. Nehemiah Boynton from Clinton Church, Brooklyn, N. Y. Dr. Boynton chose as his text the 16th verse from Paul's Epistle to Philemon, "No longer as a servant, but more than a servant, a brother beloved, especially to me, but how much rather to thee, both in the flesh and in the Lord". The speaker made the statement that the essential things of ancient society are the same as they are today. He took for his illustration the three characters in Paul's letter to Philemon. Paul, the disciple of Christ; Onesimus the poor slave, and Philemon the plutocrat.

Dr. Boynton was born at Medfield, Mass., November 21, 1865. He received the degree of A. B. from Amherst in 1879 and graduated from Andover Theological Seminary in 1882.

MIDDLEBURY LOSES 6-0 TO U. V. M. AT TENNIS

The Middlebury tennis team was defeated by the University of Vermont by the score of 6-0, last Saturday afternoon on the home courts. In all but two of the matches Vermont met little opposition. The match between Ashley of Middlebury and Rand of Vermont was the feature, the spectacular drives of the former almost equalling the steady defensive play of the Vermont racquet man. The doubles match between Edlund and Wriston of Vermont and Lane and Davis of Middlebury was hotly contested, the play going to three sets.

Summary

Rand (V) vs. Ashley (M) 7-5, 3-6, 4-6; Campbell (V) vs. Gollnick (M) 6-1, 6-1; Edlund (V) vs. Lane (M) 6-0, 6-4; Edlund (V) vs. Davis (M) 6-2, 6-3.

'VARSITY HITTING FOR .290 AVERAGE

Five Men Above .300 Class—Opponents Average Only .214—Injuries Have Hindered Team

An examination of the batting averages of the 'Varsity baseball team shows that weak stick work is not the cause of the team's failure to win more consistently in the games thus far played this season. The team's batting average .290 is only slightly under the criterion .300 regarded as an exceptional average. Five men, Elmer, Lobo, Hastings, P. Ross, and Timberman are all clouting the ball at a more than .300 clip and Gallagher and D. Ross are only slightly under the mark.

Statistics further prove that the Middlebury men as a team are outhitting their opponents by 76 points for, out of 289 times at bat the 'Varsity has registered 84 safe hits for an average of .290 whereas their opponents, in 349 tries have only connected for 75 bingles, making an average of .214.

In the field the team has not been as fortunate and records here show that the infield has been woefully weak. The Blue team has averaged 5.2 errors per game as against only 2.1 for their opponents. In runs scored Middlebury trails her opponents 52 to 62.

The loss, by injuries, of Stockwell and "Dad" Ross at second and short respectively early in the season, and the subsequent illness of Whitmore which kept him out of the games on the last trip, have undoubtedly been a hard blow to the team, and more than any other factor, has caused the ragged showing the team has made in the recent games.

The batting averages show that Flmer and Lobo, with .400 each, lead in hitting, Elmer being the more valuable of the two since he has played in all games to date. Complete averages at the bat are Elmer .400; Lobo .400; Hastings .380; P. Ross .366; Timberman .311; Gallagher .290; D. Ross, .285; Mead .232; Stockwell .181; Hulihan .154; Vose, .125; Weeks .115; Whitmore .100; and White .069.

VERMONT AND NORWICH BALL GAMES COMING SOON

Within the next few days the Middlebury ball team will have a chance at Norwich and Vermont in the traditional three-cornored state championship race, Norwich will play the first of a two game series Saturday at Porter Field and Middlebury will go to Burlington Monday for the annual Decoration Day return game with U. V. M.

Judging from games it has played thus far this season, Norwich has a team of better than average and plays snappy ball. Maher, their flashy third baseman, is regarded as the star of the infield. Coach Dave B. Morey will probably send Elmer in the box to oppose the cadets, saving Hulihan for the Vermont game, two days later.

The Middlebury line-up during these games will probably show several changes. It is thought that White will be supplanted at third by Vose whose hitting has improved considerably. Hastings will be moved in to second and "Dad" Ross, now recovered from injuries received on the R. P. I. trip, will be back at his old position at short.

Edith Young '24 spent the week-end at her home in Pawlet.

VAUDEVILLE SHOW WELL RECEIVED

Well Balanced and Varied Program Presented Last Night in Gymnasium for Curtain Fund

A well balanced and varied program was presented in the Gymnasium last night before a good-sized audience when the last entertainment for the benefit of the Stage Curtain Fund was given by members of the Faculty and students. After the opening number, a song of the fan by six girls in Spanish costume, Professor D. L. Robinson read several of William Henry Drummond's poems in French Dialect in a most entertaining and realistic manner. The efforts of Gannon and Perry perhaps made as big a hit as any number on the program, their rendering of new, old and original songs being such as to bring forth much applause. In the one-act play "A Sunny Morning" Miss Ladd and Mr. Bigelow interpreted their parts so as to best bring out the humor in the lines.

After intermission, during which music was furnished by Fitzpatrick's Orchestra, Collini, the Magician, otherwise known as William R. Cole, carried out his tricks in a clever manner for an amateur. The solo numbers of Hunter and the piano selections of Senorita Maria de Onate were in some respects the best numbers on the program. In "If Exams Were Oral" a comical farce which closed the entertainment, the jokes on the different members of the Faculty were perhaps most appreciated.

M. I. BILLINGS BECOMES PRES. OF STUDENT GOV'T

The new officers of the Student Government Association were installed Wednesday afternoon, May 18. Honored With Order of the Sacred Treasure by Emporer, April 13

A cable has been received from the American Embassy in Japan that the Hon. A. Barton Hepburn '71, who has been visiting in Japan, was decorated on April 13, by the Emperor, with the Order of the Sacred Treasure. This is the highest order which has been conferred of late years upon any American by Japan. Mr. Hepburn writes enthusiastically of the hospitality accorded him by the Japanese. Everything has been done to make him welcome and to add to his enjoyment during his stay in the Orient, which began early in March.

Mr. Hepburn is the second Middlebury alumnus within the year to have received decoration by a foreign government, Professor H. P. W. de Visme having recently been awarded the Cross of the French Legion of Honor.

PROF. J. M. LACALLE HONORED BY THREE APPOINTMENTS

Professor J. Moreno-Lacalle has been honored by three recent appointments. At the last meeting of the New England Modern Language Association on May 14, 1921, which he attended as delegate from Middlebury, he was elected vice president of the association.

Word has also been received of Professor Lacalle's appointment as a representative of the Board of Extension Studies of the Department of Public Instruction of Spain. He is authorized to constitute in Middlebury College, a committee composed of himself as chairman, another college professor, and a high school teacher of Spanish for the purpose of cooperating with the Institute of the Spains of New York to promote the study of Spanish in the United States.

Professor Lacalle has also been appointed Corresponding Member of the Royal Center of Historical Studies of Granada, Spain.

TRACK TEAM WILL HAVE HARD FIGHT AT CANTON

Tommorrow the Middlebury track team will meet St. Lawrence University at Canton in the last dual meet of the season. The New Yorkers have collected together a very strong aggregation of runners and jumpers and will give the Middlebury contingent very stiff opposition. Kane, the huskey hammer thrower, who hurls the lead around one hundred and forty feet and Goolden who smashed the Eastern Intercollegiate record for the two mile run by covering the distance in twenty-one and a fifth, are unquestionably the star performers for the Scarlet but they will be assisted by a well-balanced team.

By scoring a total of seventeen points, St. Lawrence captured fourth place in the Eastern Intercollegiate Track Meet held at Springfield, Mass., May 14. In the encounter the New Yorkers probably showed to better advantage than any other during the year. Their representatives, Kane and Goolden both established new records in their specialties while their teammates accounted for the remaining seven points by taking third in the 220-dash, 220-low hurdles, and the hammer throw, and fourth in the high jump.

FACULTY GIVE THREE LECTURES LAST WEEK

Professor D. L. Robinson delivered the first of the series of illustrated lectures arranged by the faculty to raise money for the new curtain in the gymnasium, Wednesday, May 18, when he spoke upon "The Tourists' Paris and a Peaceful France". The lecture outlined a trip through France touching many of the beautiful and interesting spots of France, its seashore resorts, its country scenes in the south and its towns and cities of historical and artistic interest. The lecture closed with numerous views and a rather detailed description of Paris.

The second lecture "Following Great Men Through Greece" was delivered Thursday, May 19, by Professor W. S. Burrage. Professor Burrage linked the past with the present by showing the sites of the most famous scenes of ancient Greek history. Views of especial interest were shown of Athens, Corinth, Socrates' prison, the open air theatres, the stadium where the Olympian games used to be held and the beautiful remains of Greek art and architecture.

Friday, May 20, Professor J. Moreno-Lacalle lectured upon "The Spain of Romance and Reality." He first gave a history of Spain, then showed views of and described all of the important cities of Spain with special emphasis upon the beautiful buildings which they contain as the Alhambra at Granada, the cathedrals in all the large cities, and the royal palace at Madrid.

appeared with many orchestras in the larger musical cities of the country. Her voice is a lyric soprano of exquisite, haunting quality, coloratura in range and facility. Mme. Lashanska is also a woman of great physical beauty and grace. Music lovers will rejoice at the opportunity of hearing her

The Student Life Committee is to be considered most fortunate in closing contracts which provide for the appearance in Middlebury of two musical artists of highest rank. Previous announcement has been made of the engagement of William Jennings Bryan, in lecture, and of an orchestral concert by the Boston Symphony Orchestra. Numerous other contracts are pending.

MIDDLEBURY UNABLE TO PLACE IN BOSTON MEET

Although able to place in the preliminaries Middlebury track athletes found the field too fast for them in the finals at the New England Intercollegiate Track Meet at Boston last Friday and Saturday and was unable to break into the scoring column. The weather conditions were ideal for the events and a number of records vanished into the ether.

In the preliminaries Darby '21 placed in the 100 and in the 220 yard dashes. Captain Robinson had captured a place in the high hurdles and was leading the field in the low hurdle race when he received injuries that forced him not of the meet. It is feared that these injuries will keep him out of the St. Lawrence Meet at Canton, N. Y. next Thursday. Kendall '24 placed in the 880 yard trials, but the final event was won in the fast time of 49 seconds, which is three seconds better than the Middlebury record. Shelvey '23 ran in the mile event and Cole '22 in the two mile, but both these events were also carried off in record-breaking time.

Northeastern 11-Middlebury 7

Outhitting their opponents but fielding loosely, Middlebury lost the third game of the week to Northeastern University, Saturday in Boston. Hastings started on the mound but four hits in the second which, together with an error let in five runs caused Coach Morey to send in Elmer who fared little better in the seven remaining innings. Gallagher, Elmer and Mead had the lone distinction of playing errorless games.

Bunched hits and all around better playing gave Worcester Poly a well earned victory Thursday over Middlebury. Elmer pitched well but costly errors on the part of his mates lost for the Blue. Middlebury scored all her runs in the third and ninth innings by bunching hits.
